(July 30, 2010) – Railsolve, Inc. has acquired the assets of Ameritrack Railroad Contractors, Inc., and Ameritrack West, Inc., providers of railroad track construction and maintenance services in the Midwest. The acquired business will operate under the name Ameritrack Rail, a division of Railsolve, Inc.

Headquartered in Atlanta, Railsolve is the leading provider of in-plant railcar switching services in North America. The company employs more than 800 workers at customer sites, and also furnishes switching locomotives and related equipment.

Ameritrack, based in Frankfort, Indiana, offers services for new track construction, feasibility and design studies, track inspection, maintenance, rehabilitation and emergency repairs.

Tim Benjamin, Vice President Finance for Railsolve, noted that Ameritrack's services complement those of Railsolve. "Ameritrack enjoys a wonderful reputation with its customers, and is an ideal fit with our business," he said. "This acquisition will expand the range of services and expertise we can offer, while allowing Ameritrack to extend its geographic range from the Midwest to strategic locations throughout North America."

Ameritrack's former owners, Ralph and Mike Jackson and Harris and Mike Eldridge, will continue to help manage the business, with Mike Eldridge serving as general manager.
